Message from the Director of Litigation

The Community Health Law Project (CHLP) continues its mission of assisting the most vulnerable residents of our state – those who are low-income and living with disabilities. In addition to providing individual advocacy and legal representation, CHLP continues its role in impacting broad policy and systemic change to help better the lives of our consumers.

CHLP was instrumental in helping to draft and promote the legislation which now provides residents of “free-standing” Residential Healthcare Facilities (RHCFs) with the same protections against arbitrary eviction as enjoyed by tenants and by rooming and boarding house residents. Prior to this new law, residents of RHCFs could be involuntarily discharged on 30 days’ notice at the whim of the operator without any right to due process before an impartial tribunal. The new law will protect RHCF residents from arbitrary removal and will place the authority to evict a resident in the hands of a court to make an independent, neutral decision.

CHLP is also at the forefront of promoting a relatively new and exciting model of providing holistic, comprehensive, and integrated care to consumers through Medical-Legal Partnerships whereby attorneys are embedded into the healthcare setting as partners in the treatment team. Research indicates that when key elements of everyday life are compromised - when housing is compromised or food security is uncertain, benefits are interrupted or terminated, or safety is compromised - health suffers and recovery is jeopardized. These social determinants of health can be addressed through legal assistance and advocacy. By screening patients for legal issues in the healthcare setting, attorneys can address these issues proactively, as opposed to reactively when the patient may already be in crisis by the time they are referred for legal services outside of the healthcare setting which, at that point, may be too late. The impact of medical-legal partnerships includes, but is not limited to, better patient compliance with care and improved health, reduced healthcare spending for high-use and high-cost patients, and healthcare cost savings for patients and recovery of vital benefits.

CHLP has a medical-legal partnership to assist individuals battling HIV/AIDS. We also recently launched medical-legal partnerships with several agencies providing services to those suffering with substance use disorders, which is critical in light of the opioid epidemic plaguing our state. And we are hoping to form medical-legal partnerships with other healthcare providers as resources permit. We are very enthusiastic about this innovative and common-sense approach to providing necessary legal services to consumers as part of the healthcare team in order to promote positive health outcomes.

In addition to these exciting initiatives, CHLP continues to provide services to consumers through our main referral system. Our priority areas include public entitlements, housing, family issues, consumer matters, and foreclosure. We also continue to serve individuals receiving home care, such as personal care assistance, private duty nursing, and durable medical equipment, to help resolve issues related to the amount of care received and continuation of care. We are also pleased to be able to continue providing services to individuals with developmental and intellectual disabilities in all of our priority areas with the addition of assisting them in the area of surrogate decision-making, including guardianships.

In the past 2 fiscal years, CHLP has served 8,569 individuals in 10,111 civil matters. We are hopeful that given New Jersey’s new administration, CHLP will continue to thrive and grow in order to serve the ever-increasing number of individuals who face daily challenges because of their disabilities and/or financial circumstances.

Sincerely,

ERIKA KERBER, ESQ.
Director of Litigation
The Year in Review: July 2016 - June 2018

The Community Health Law Project staff have represented our clients in a myriad of civil matters. Some examples of the types of cases that we have been involved in the last two fiscal years include:

• Special Education - In a case involving a youth with special needs, our attorney was able to secure an out-of-district educational placement for a child on the autism spectrum. The child is now making measurable progress at a reputable private school that specializes in Autism Spectrum Disorder. When the child's mother originally came to CHLP, she had already filed for Due Process. However, we agreed to withdraw the complaint without prejudice if the school district performed certain requested evaluations, including a neuropsychological evaluation. We were able to use the results of these evaluations to secure the out-of-district placement without the need for a full Due Process Hearing, saving the child and his mother significant time and money.

• DAC Medicaid - CHLP has had a few cases involving the DAC Medicaid exception and clients being terminated from Medicaid. The DAC Medicaid exception provides that if recipients are on Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and then receive Disabled Adult Child (DAC) benefits at a level that would normally make them ineligible for Medicaid, the individuals continue to be eligible for Medicaid. DAC eligibility requires that a parent be eligible for Social Security retirement or disability benefits or be deceased. This pattern would seem to raise a question as to how often Medicaid offices are incorrectly denying DAC Medicaid exception applicants. In addition to the various Boards of Social Services and Medicaid offices not understanding the DAC exception, parents, guardians and clients themselves are unlikely to understand the DAC Medicaid exception. There may be a systemic problem with Medicaid offices and the DAC exception. CHLP will continue to protect its clients who are eligible for the DAC Medicaid exception.

• Social Security - CHLP recently closed a case started in July, 2003. We represented a woman seeking SSI and Social Security Disability Benefits who had serious mental health issues due to multiple causes including a history of rape and other abuse. The case had to be appealed to the United States District Court four times. Each time the Social Security Administration agreed to remand the case without having a judge make a decision. Finally, an Administrative Law Judge agreed that we had been correct and granted full SSI benefits. Unfortunately, Social Security Disability Benefits were not awarded. The client received tens of thousands of dollars in retroactive benefits.

• Home Health Care - Staff represented a developmentally disabled child who was denied approval by the Medicaid HMO for a nurse to accompany the child to a preschool program. Staff met with the family and the preschool and provided medical documentation concerning the child's condition and the need for continuous nursing care. The HMO, after receiving the appeal, approved the nursing care for the child at the preschool program.

• Foreclosure - Staff represented a client who had entered into a mortgage modification agreement, but had fallen behind in payments. After reviewing the client’s financial and medical situation, staff assisted in the submission of an application to Social Security. After initial denial, the client was successful at the hearing level. With the successful Social Security matter resulting in benefits to the client, staff negotiated with the lender to dismiss the foreclosure application and implement the balance forgiveness provisions of the modification agreement.

In another case, staff represented a client who had fallen behind in her mortgage after losing her job. A foreclosure complaint was filed and after the proceedings, a sheriff’s sale was scheduled. Staff assisted the client in an application for her pension and advised the sheriff’s office that a negotiation might ensue. Staff also helped the client to apply for Hardest Hit Funds, and upon the application being approved, the lender agreed to adjourn and then dismissed the sheriff’s sale.

• Consumer - A client was sued by American Express for almost $10,000.00. We filed an Answer in Special Civil Part, requested discovery from AMEX who stonewalled and kept wanting to settle. Then we filed a Motion To Strike their pleadings for failure to answer discovery. The court granted our motion, then we waited and filed another motion to convert the dismissal “without prejudice” to “with prejudice”. The judge granted our motion. The client is so grateful to us since AMEX can never come after her again.

• Child Support - The NJ child support law recently changed and now provides that a non-custodial parent’s duty to pay child support automatically terminates when the child reaches age 19. Exceptions to the termination at age 19 and potential continuation to age 23 include that the child is still a high school student or enrolled in another secondary school program, or attending college, vocational school, or graduate school on a full time basis, or was mentally and physically disabled prior to the age of 19 as determined by a federal or state governmental agency and needs continued support or the parties had agreed to an alternate support termination date or the court had granted a period of continued support. The new law also provides that no child support can continue after a child reaches the age of 23. But a court can still order a parent to pay for certain expenses related to raising and supporting the child past his or her 23rd birthday. There are many recipients of child support who have a physical or mental disability and who will never be able to support themselves due to the disability. The new law provides that a child beyond the age of 23 may seek a court order requiring the payment of financial maintenance. CHLP has represented the custodial parents of adult developmentally disabled children in filing actions in probate court for the establishment of financial maintenance to replace the child support which had previously been paid through probation. It has been necessary to demonstrate the severity of the disability in preventing the adult disabled child’s ability to self-support. In one such case in which the adult disabled child was receiving SSI which is a needs-based benefit and which would be reduced by support even more than for children under the age of 18, CHLP was able to draft a special needs trust and have the support converted to financial maintenance and paid to the special needs trust so that it would not reduce the amount of SSI paid. CHLP was also able to implement an order of garnishment of the father’s wages from a federal agency with which he was employed.

Nearly 70 years later, the organization continues this vital work by providing services to improve accessibility for people with disabilities and their families. Advancing Opportunities’ mission is to achieve full societal participation for all people with disabilities.
CHLP’s Programs and Services

The essential mission of the Community Health Law Project is to provide legal and advocacy services to New Jersey residents with disabilities. We serve consumers of mental health services, people with physical disabilities, HIV/AIDS, developmental disabilities, and visual impairments. Our attorneys and advocates represent clients in matters involving Social Security benefits, welfare, food stamps, and other entitlements; housing habitability and landlord/tenant disputes; foreclosure defense; consumer protection and debt collection; child support and domestic violence; Medicaid, Medicare, and other health insurance issues; civil rights; and barrier-free accessibility. In FY2017 (July 1, 2016 to June 30, 2017), CHLP represented 4,341 clients. In FY2018 (July 1, 2017 to June 30, 2018), CHLP represented 4,228 clients.

An example of how the Law Project’s direct services adjusts to the needs of our clients is the continuing crisis of foreclosures facing New Jersey residents. During the last few years, various media outlets have spoken about the foreclosure epidemic continuing to be a crisis. Unfortunately, New Jersey has stood high on the list of states facing this situation. An article in The Star Ledger from July 2016 stated that New Jersey might well have the nation's highest rate of foreclosures in a large number of properties mired in the process. With many of our clients being low-income, as well as a large number being aged, our staff have addressed this problem by assisting clients to either overt foreclosure or work out settlements that enable them to stay in the property or have sufficient time to find other housing.

In addition to the examples of services described above, CHLP operates several unique programs:

To Your Health. This program concentrates on two important issues facing our clients: First is providing assistance to individuals with mental health and co-occurring addictions to enroll under the Affordable Care Act in the new Medicaid Expansion Program and the Healthcare Marketplace. For other clients, we have assisted and represented individuals receiving home health care who have had their health care services denied, terminated or reduced by the health care insurance carrier.

Student Internship Program. Since 1988, CHLP has been holding its annual Ann Klein Advocate Awards, the proceeds of which support its student internship program. Using these funds, as well as funding from Legal Services of New Jersey, CHLP has been able to hire several law students and graduate students every year to work in its branch offices on direct legal services, and its South Orange office on civil rights cases. In so doing, CHLP helps to train and inspire the next generation of disability advocates and attorneys.

Civil Rights and ADA Litigation. For many years the CHLP has been a leading voice and advocate for clients in Fair Housing and Americans with Disabilities litigation. Staff continues to assist clients in asserting their rights and seeking accommodations.

Trainings and Workshops. CHLP offers a wide range of workshops for consumers and professionals. With the support of the New Jersey State Bar Foundation, it presents an annual Law & Disability Issues Conference at the New Jersey Law Center in New Brunswick every spring. Subjects range from civil rights cases to health care issues to new laws affecting people in institutional settings. CHLP staff is always ready to speak on the entire range of legal topics that affect the organization’s clients. The staff also offers interactive workshops on the civil rights of persons with disabilities and on health care issues.
Public Policy Advocacy. CHLP staff has continued to address system-wide issues that affect our clients in a number of ways. For example, we participated in statewide coalitions such as the New Jersey Anti-Poverty Network and the Affordable Housing Network and various county professional advisory committees to local mental health planning boards. We took active roles in the government affairs committees and activities of statewide organizations such as Disability Rights New Jersey, the Mental Health Association in New Jersey, The Arc of New Jersey, and New Jersey Association of Mental Health and Addiction Agencies. Our direct service staff attorneys and advocates participated in numerous local advisory boards and task forces around the state addressing issues such as homelessness, mental illness, developmental disabilities, Social Security, HIV/AIDS services, prisoner reentry and human services. In addition, our attorneys and advocates provided community education and training around the state on a variety of topics of concern to people with disabilities. An example of this effort is our South Jersey office attending monthly meetings with the public policy sub-committee of the Mental Health Association of Southwestern New Jersey’s Board working on getting the Camden County Board of Social Services to be more responsive and sensitive to the needs of mental health consumers and improving access to their services; and providing training to boarding home/residential health care facility operators and residential services providers on Social Security issues.

Fee-for-Service Program. The CHLP has initiated a Fee-for-Service (FFS) representation program for individuals with disabilities whose income exceeds CHLP’s income guidelines to obtain free legal representation or for those individuals with disabilities for whom CHLP has no funding to provide free legal representation. Under the FFS program, CHLP bills its legal services on a sliding scale, from $125 to $175 per hour, depending on the client’s income. Legal services are provided in such areas as special education, social security, special needs trusts, health insurer’s denial of coverage or services, guardianships, expungements, name changes, wills, living wills, powers of attorney, fair housing and ADA issues, and certain other civil law matters.

Medical-Legal Partnership – CHLP has embarked on a new innovative model of providing legal assistance through Medical-Legal Partnerships to address the social determinants of health. In a medical-legal partnership, attorneys are embedded into a healthcare setting as part of the treatment team to provide holistic care to patients and improve health outcomes by addressing patients’ life issues - such as housing preservation, entitlements, family issues, etc.- which, research shows, affect overall health outcomes significantly more than medical interventions.
